

ZOOKEEPER

ACT TWO

(The ZOO-KEEPER enters the stage.)

ZOO-KEEPER: Hello, my little pollywogs, and welcome to the middle of the play. Did you know that there could still be humans among us? Oh, yes, our beloved President Ya-Wi has gone a long way in trying to eradicate this very dangerous species, but there is no guarantee that we completely wiped out this very viscous animal.

How is this possible you might ask?

Well, as infants, humans are affectionate, playful, and irresistibly cute.

(Projection: A cute baby)

ZOO-KEEPER: For this reason, some misguided Alliance citizens may be tempted to keep a surviving human toddler as a pet. But, beware, humans do not make good pets!

At an early age, Humans may seem to be harmless and fun, but humans, like any animal, grow up fast, and by puberty, they are stronger than most adult Tingarians and become very destructive, irrational, and very very dangerous.

And as we all know, adult humans are not cute or friendly.
